ABOUT ME

Kia Ora! I am a Māori/Samoan kiwi girl with a passion for software development and creativity. My spare time is filled with making music and playing sports -if not coding ;).

I recently completed a 15 week software development boot camp. I learnt with an agile approach to each challenge and project. I thrive as a pair programmer but also on my own. During the bootcamp, 50-60 hours of coding a week was required of us. This has further enhanced my dedication and work ethic. Because I learnt at such a fast pace, I believe I can quickly pick up new languages and concepts. I love learning and will always rise to the challenge.
